

Resumé

Sarah Tarablus is from Perugia, Italy. She finished high school at Liceo Classico Annibale Mariotti in Perugia. After her studies she was accepted to the private Conservatory of Music in Fiesole, Florence, where she studied Viola. She was then accepted to study in Berlin, Germany at the UDK University of Arts where she completed her Bachelors degree. Apart from playing various concerts in Germany and France, she won a one-year contract in the Hof Symphony in Hof, Germany. After finishing her contract, she moved to Tel-Aviv, Israel to play in various orchestras, chamber music festivals, and to finish her Masters degree in Viola Performance at the Jerusalem Academy of Music. She has recently moved to Los Angeles in order to further her musical career and to explore the vibrant culture that the city has to offer. Her travels around the world have led her to be fluent in English, German, Spanish, and of course Italian.